

Springfree™ Trampoline Proudly Accepts Parent's Choice Foundation Recommendation

The Parent's Choice Foundation has selected Springfree™ Trampoline as one of the winners of its coveted 2009 children's toy awards. The Foundation is the nation's oldest nonprofit guide to quality children's media and toys.

According to the Foundation's recommendation "Although our judges are not in the habit of awarding trampolines, the Springfree had so many unique safety features that they couldn't deny. Our testers, ranging in age from six to sixty-six, found skills they hadn't known, confidence that needed reawakening, and a hefty dose of much needed family fun. If your family has been thinking about a trampoline, this is highly recommended and worth serious consideration."

This Award reflects Springfree™ Trampoline's commitment to safety and innovation and is a testament of parent's belief in choosing the safest products for their children.

Steven Holmes, President and CEO of Springfree™ Trampoline says he's delighted to receive this recognition from such an esteemed organization.

"We are proud to be recommended by the Foundation whose award panel includes educators, performing artists, parents, scientists and children who endeavor to evaluate products objectively, and pass unbiased reliable feedback onto other parents so they can make informed choices."

"We are humbled by this recognition and thank our team, and the loyal families who believe in our products. Trampolines provide so many developmental and health benefits but until the Springfree™ Trampoline the benefits were outweighed by the risk. Each and every part of the patented design is specifically engineered from quality materials all over the world, with safety being our number one priority."

For more information on Springfree™ Trampoline, please visit our website at www.springfreetrampoline.com and feel free to contact Michael Crane, Springfree Trampoline Inc., at 1-866-899-7370 x231 for additional comments.

About Springfree™ Trampoline

The Springfree™ Trampoline's design process spanned 14 years, and incorporated millions of dollars in research and testing before its launch. The unique design removes all impact zones associated with traditional "old-style" trampolines. Springfree™ Trampoline replaces traditional steel springs with a flexible fiberglass rod system, has removed the hard frame at the jumping surface and need for additional padding through its engineered SoftEdge™ Mat, and has a unique FlexiNet™ jumper enclosure, which flexes to absorb the impact of wayward jumpers.

the world's safest trampoline

There are currently six models of the Springfree™ Trampoline available in North America with our innovative design for providing children with the ultimate in trampoline safety.